

LETTER TO SECOND WIVES

You are welcome to the house of polygamy

Before you got married to him, you would have heard so many things from him. I believe you would have asked him why marrying again. And he would have given different reasons or no reason at all like he is just following the Sunnah.

This is why I always told first wives that don't be the reason why he is marrying again. If you are not the reason, the rest is simple.

Some men are not mature enough. You might be hearing reasons like, she is not satisfying me in bed, I need more energetic woman, my family doesn't like her but I can't leave her, etc.

If a man tells you something of this nature, my advice for you if you have not yet married him is that don't marry him. And if you have, then think deeply before acting because you will also become a victim one day. Some men tend to say rubbish when marrying again. Some will even leak out their first wife's secrets all in the name of wooing another woman. Majority of the second wives will then marry on these bad notions and their behaviour to first wife will be on what the immature husband had divulged out to them.

But if you happen to meet the mature one and he told you is sunnah, even if it's not, or he just want to then, I congratulate you for that. You are dealing with a mature man.

Don't come in with a belief that you are the best. Or you are coming to take over. Take over what? Were you told the madam in the house is not functioning? Some of you will even come in with the notion that, it's because something is wrong with the first wife that was the reason he got married to you. And who told you that?

With lots of counselling sessions, I have come across stories of bad second wives, who are fitnah in the house. They lack respect for the first, they behave like they are so special, and they want to rule. They step anyhow. They will put the first in great pain. But as I always say, "it's just for a while".

My dear, men are not worth destroying your life for. Even he is so immature that he is making you so special in the house, giving you attention, having you all the time in his room at night, laughing with you especially more than the first, even saying negative things about her to you. Know, this will not last forever; he will still do the same thing with another woman one day. You will still be complained about.

No matter your packaging, he will solve your problem with the third. Know this, there is nothing special in that position. It is some men who made it. Never fall a victim.

Respect the first wife, give her the accords if she doesn't welcome you initially, don't worry, don't read bad meaning to it. She might be still going through the transition, it takes time and lots of patience. And if she is still nagging, don't worry, just step back and watch. She will still come around.

Beware of bad influence; many of second wives are with bad friends. They will give those lectures on how to deal with the first. I believe if you lose the man at the end of the day, they won't tell you to marry their husbands

Don't ever step it please!
